Following a demonstration, Army Trail students were able to meet and pet the sled dogs of Mike and Deb Rawailot, who race throughout the upper Midwest. More photos inside.

Army Trail students learn about the Iditarod

At Army Trail School, students had an Iditarod assembly where they learned about sled dog racing from Mike and Deb Rawailot, a husband and wife team that participates in races in the upper Midwest. Students learned about huskies, training and racing equipment and enjoyed an opportunity to pet the dogs and enjoy an outdoor demonstration, where teacher Tina Scimeca and principal Donna Haney also had a chance to do some sledding. The Rawailots are also involved in husky rescue and adoption efforts.
